

AFRICAN AMERICAN CONTENT ON

DT+

Pipeline | BroadwayHD © Jeremy Daniel

From dynamic productions and poetry performances to interviews with award-winning African American actors, writers and directors, with Digital Theatre+ your students can access an evolving range of engaging, relevant resources to enrich their learning.

Top resource picks

Poetry in Action

Discover some of the greatest African American poets with Poetry in Action, a new series designed to strengthen students' understanding of poetry! Explore professional recitals and detailed analyses of popular poems from Phyllis Wheatley, Countee Cullen, Rita Dove, and more.

Productions

Give your students front-row seats to critically acclaimed productions from world-class theatre companies, including Dominique Morisseau's Pipeline, audio productions of the plays of Lynn Nottage, and The Mountaintop, a reimagining of Martin Luther King's final day.

Interviews

Get backstage insights from leading practitioners with exclusive interviews! Engage your students in conversations about representation with Musical Matters, where Tony Award-winning playwright George C. Wolfe and Hamilton actress Nikki Renée Daniels discuss developing an inclusive curriculum, or reflect on the key themes of August Wilson's award-winning play Fences with director Paulette Randall and actor Tanya Moodie.

Contextual Materials

Extend learning with an array of contextual materials to support the topics and texts you're teaching. Discover Concise Introductions to award-winning playwrights August Wilson and Suzan-Lori Parks, plus supporting resources for teaching Pipeline, including a critical essay by Sandra Adell and a bumper pack of practical activities to engage your students in the production.

Top resource picks

At Digital Theatre+, we're constantly adding to our offering to ensure you have relevant, engaging resources for the topics you teach. With a subscription, you'll have access to:

650+

HIGH QUALITY PRODUCTIONS

800+

VIDEO RESOURCES

21,000+

PAGES OF WRITTEN RESOURCES